Call for Application

The 4th Graphic Art Biennial of Szeklerland Sfântu Gheorghe, 2016

The integrative character of contemporary graphics

The Covasna and Harghita County Councils and the Cultural Center of Covasna County are organizing together the 4th Graphic Art Biennial of Szeklerland between January 20 and December 20, 2016.

General information:

Directing our thinking, perception and habits imperceptibly but very effectively, the created visual sign system covers our world almost entirely. We live in a world dominated by images, fact which must indispensably be taken into account. Especially by artists thinking and carrying out their activity in the field of fine arts.

Graphics also reflects this determining character of images and the changes of their social role; in its case the specific transformations of genres mutually influencing one another can be perceived perhaps the most powerfully. Virtual images have changed the role of graphics; nevertheless, the printed picture connected to the materiality of the artwork has not lost its importance either. In the world of the pictorial turn graphics has also become borderless; today the artist can freely choose the carrier of the images generated by new media. By printing, the virtual image can return to traditional reality bound to materiality, thus the digital image also becomes a means of graphics.

Graphic Art
Biennial of Szeklerland

The objective of the Graphic Art Biennial of Szeklerland is to place side by side the local and the universal, and thus to find and define the role of endeavours in the field of graphics, born in the region as well as in other parts of the world, within global trends, in terms of both traditional and digital graphics. It aims to achieve this by fully respecting the freedom of the artists unbiased by stereotypes, as regards the choice of the means, the technique and the carrier of the visual mode of expression.

In accordance with the above, we can define several characteristics and forms of interpretation of the notion of graphics: its multiplicative character, printing as a communication medium, graphics as a visual mode of expression, graphic image creation as a form of illustration, digital image creation, the mode of visual archiving and the printed versions of these, the visual printed document. Every participant can choose from the enumerated definitions, they can provide definitions and visual responses. The Graphic Art Biennial of Szeklerland offers possibilities of choice and expects visual responses to the respective definitions.

Contrary to the first three editions of the biennial, this year we have modified the definitions of the application categories. We hereby announce one comprehensive category, which tries to integrate the possibilities of contemporary graphics.

In accordance with this, the present call for applications announces one category, namely Printed graphics, which includes the following proposed procedures and methods of graphic art:

1. graphic artworks created with traditional procedures of graphic art;
2. graphic artworks created with digital methods of image creation and printed with digital devices;
3. graphic artworks prepared with digital methods of image creation but printed with traditional methods.
